

ANNE OF GREEN GABLES

By Lucy Maud Montgomery

Anne: Mrs. Lynde, I'm extremely sorry I behaved so terribly. I've disgraced my good friends who let me stay at Green Gables on trial, even though I'm not a boy. I am wicked and ungrateful, and I deserved to be cast out forever. What you said was true. I am skinny, and ugly, and my hair is red. What I said about you was true, too, only I shouldn't have said it. Please, Mrs. Lynde, forgive me. You wouldn't be so cruel as to inflict a lifelong sorrow on a poor orphan. Please, please forgive me.
